420 Are Killed By Winter In West Europe

France Hardest Hit By Deep Freeze; Ice Threatens Waterways

LONDON (AP) — Europe's relentless cold wave had claimed at least 420 dead today after 2½ weeks. Relief still was not in sight.

Subfreezing temperatures stretched across the continent. St. Tropez on the French Riviera snowed (16 inches) in memory. Icepacks slowly forced the 1,900-ton Swedish cargo ship Matilda on to Sweden's rocky Baltic coast. Helicopters stood by to rescue the crew of 20.

The ice also threatened the last open sea lane between eastern and western Denmark.

People in hundreds of isolated villages in Italy and on lonely Baltic islands ran short of food.

By countries, these deaths were recorded from cold, fire, storms, avalanches and accidents attributed to the freezeup:

France 107, Yugoslavia 65, Italy 63, Britain 45, Greece 30, Denmark 27, Germany 25, Turkey 41, Austria 17, The Netherlands 15, Portugal 14, Spain 12, Switzerland 11, Sweden 6, Belgium 5, Poland 4 and Libya 2.

MORE WERE feared dead in small communities still isolated. No complete figures were available for Iron Curtain countries which were suffering at least as badly as Western Europe.

Ice stopped all inland shipping throughout West Germany. The Rhine flooded because icepacks at Kaub, near the famous Lorelei Rock, stopped the water from getting downstream.

U. S. Army engineers and German frontier guards blasted away ice to release flood waters on the Danube, frozen over for 140 miles.

Temperatures in West Germany ranged generally between 5 and 20 degrees below Weiden, in Bavaria, had 10 below. Berlin reported 4 below and Vienna hit its lowest of the freezeup—14 below.

Italy launched a big clear-the-roads campaign to reach areas cut off 10 days or more. Motor convoys, helicopters and ski troops moved in with food, medicine and fuel.

Sixty-five U. S. Air Force Flying Boxcars wound up the biggest European airlift since the Berlin blockade, completing delivery from Germany of 70,000 pounds of relief supplies for the hard-hit Italians.

French cities were short of fresh vegetables. Gardeners suffered damage running into the millions. Fresh snow piled up over southeast England. Roads in 77 British counties were declared dangerous. A northerly gale sent east coast shipping running for shelter. There was one bright spot—Spain. Its weeklong cold wave broke after claiming 12 lives and ruining two-thirds of the orange crop. Madrid had sunshine with temperatures above freezing.

Meanderings By Wash Fayette

It seems that Congressman Craig Hosmer, who is fighting the proposed multi-million dollar Glen Canyon Dam and reservoir project on the Colorado River, literally dropped a stone into the congressional machinery which may kill the project.

The rock he used is nothing more or less than chert formation, or soft shale, which readily disintegrates when placed in water.

The congressman mailed samples of the shale to newspapers throughout the United States and there probably will be some echoes as a result.

The inference is that no dam could be anchored to the shale walls of the canyon.

What I wanted to tell you is that the situation pointed out by Rep. Hosmer reminds me of what happened in Paint Creek many years ago, when engineers failed to take into consideration that part of a dam thrown across the creek, just below the High Bridge near "The Point" west of Bainbridge washed out over night when water started wearing away the shale and soft dolomite under the dam.

Water had been impounded in Paint Creek reaching nearly to the top of the dam, which was to furnish power for a distillery and woolen mill, when the soft stone gave way under continued washing and the project was gone forever.

99th Birthday Is Observed By Washington C. H. Woman

POSING FOR HER PORTRAIT on her 99th Birthday, Mrs. William McCoy remarked that she remembered very clearly the first time her picture was taken. "I got a dozen tin-tyes for a quarter," she recalled. That was in 1872, when she was 15. Tuesday, she was 99 — and celebrated by having her picture taken again. (Record-Herald photo)

Years ago, Mrs. William McCoy's birth certificate was destroyed in a fire. But Mrs. McCoy needed no legal props for her memory to know that Tuesday was her 99th birthday.

"Not many people have 99 birthdays," observed Mrs. Carrie Lydy, the daughter with whom Mrs. McCoy has shared her home at 428 Western Avenue for the past 18 years.

"And I'm going to have a hundredth birthday, too," Mrs. McCoy announced with a note of confidence.

On the face of it, there's not much doubt that she will. Ex-

Farm Bureau Raps Road Use Taxation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Farm Bureau Federation today opposed a bill to raise federal road use taxes, contending the states "should continue to have the primary responsibility for financing highways."

The federation, one of the nation's major farm organizations, advocated instead "continuation of the present level" of federal highway spending (about $700 million a year) and "termination of the federal gasoline tax so that this source of revenue may be made available to the states."

O'Neill Opens His Campaign By Outlining Chief Aims

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill says his aim if elected governor is a "real working partnership" between the executive and legislative branches of government for the good of Ohio.

The former speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives voiced the pledge last night at a banquet launching his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the May 8 primary election.

About 600 party workers and officials from over the state turned out for the sendoff in O'Neill's hometown on his 40th birthday. The crowd filled the decorated gymnasium of the Betsey Mills Club for Women in this pioneer Ohio river city.

Sharing the speaking program were State Rep. Robert A. Taft Jr. of Cincinnati, U. S. Sen. George H. Bender of Cleveland and U. S. Rep. John Henderson of Cambridge, 15th District Congressman. All joined State Sen. C. Stanley Mechem of Nelsonville, the toastmaster, in lauding O'Neill's qualifications for governor.

"I believe," O'Neill said, "that a real working partnership in Ohio between the legislative branch and the executive . . . would accomplish wonders for progress in our state."

He apparently referred to past friction between Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Republican dominated legislatures.

Lausche passed up a likely sixth term for governor to challenge Bender's bid for re-election in the Nov. 6 general election. Both Bend-

Senator Fears Free World Aiding Commies

McClellan Opens Probe Into Strategic Goods Going To War Machine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) today accused high government officials of withholding information about what he said are mounting free world sales of strategic materials to Russia's "war machine."

Opening public hearings of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, Chairman McClellan said the group has received "evidence that merchants of the free world are helping to build up Russia's military potential by furnishing them items which are indispensable in constructing or maintaining a war machine."

He said this trade volume has reached "very disturbing" proportions since a 1954 meeting in Paris at which the United States agreed to a relaxation of curbs on free world trade with the Soviet Union.

McClellan said obstacles have been raised to his efforts to pin point the scope of the agreement and to find out what American officials consented to it.

"This subcommittee is determined to get that information if it is within its power to do so," he added.

PRIOR INQUIRIES into East West trade have set off some bitter rows between the subcommittee and administration officials.

The start of public hearings came after a closed door meeting yesterday between McClellan and undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. Neither Hoover nor McClellan would comment, but other subcommittee members, who declined to be quoted by name, said Hoover had advised strongly against a public investigation, citing possible impact on U. S. relations with Western allies.

McClellan said the easing of the trade curbs "has been harmful to the security of the non-Communist world."

Mystery Still Veils Explosion Here

Hunt for Gas Being Pressed By DP&L Following Blast

Where did the gas come from? That was the biggest of a host of questions raised by Sunday night's gas blast here — and it remained unanswered today.

The explosion punched two walls out of a brick home at 426 East Market Street and sent the owner, Paul Slagle, to Memorial Hospital with second and third degree burns over the upper half of his body.

Dayton Power & Light Co. crews have been investigating "every possibility" since the blast, according to the supervisor of the company's gas department, George Finley.

But he said Wednesday: "We're still in the dark."

Biggest puzzle in the mystery, Finley said, is that none of the eight persons in the house reported smelling gas, either before or after the blast.

If the explosion was caused by natural gas, the kind supplied by DP&L, there is no explanation of why the gas was not detected by its odor.

"Our supplier puts a 'tracer' in the gas," Finley said, "so the householder can detect a leak." The odor of the tracer is "very strong," he said.

The oddest thing of all is that the amount of the tracer has been increased to the point where consumers are reporting even pinhole leaks, he added.

"WHEN THEY first started putting that stuff in the gas last year, we got a lot of calls on leaks," Finley said.

"Then last fall, they doubled the amount and we started getting calls on smaller leaks. The amount was doubled again Jan. 1 and now we get reports on the tiniest leaks."

The possibility of a natural gas leak is not the only one the crews are investigating, he said.

They are also checking sewer connections in the whole block to see whether any other explosive gas might have leaked into the Slagle home.

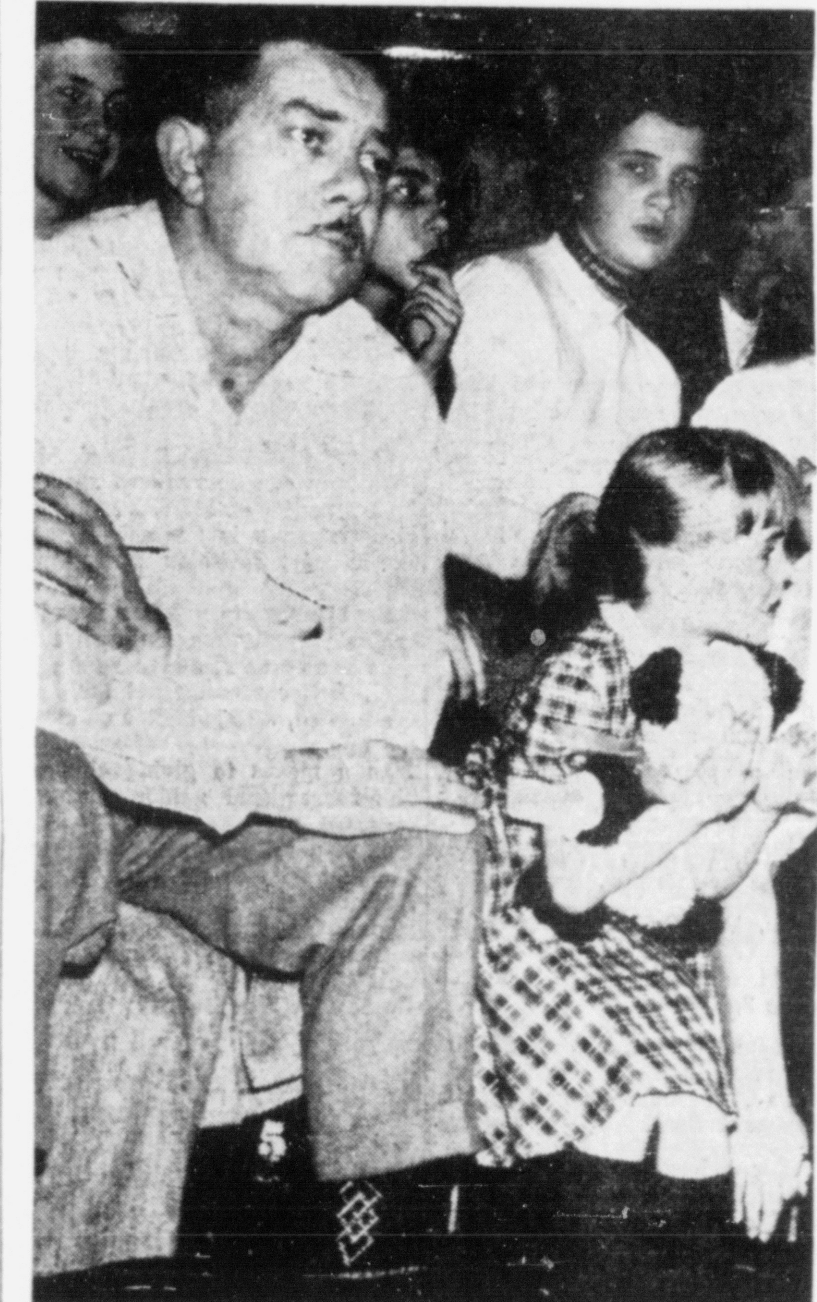

Other possibilities include gasoline fumes or sewer gas, he said.

If gasoline leaked into the sewers, the fumes could back up into the house through cellar drains or other plumbing outlets, he said. And sewer gas remains a possibility.

But neither sewer gas nor gasoline fumes would explain why no odor was detected before the blast, Finley admitted.

Among the measures DP&L is taking "to protect the customers," Finley said, are checking the gas main running down Market Street between North and Forest streets; checking the sewer and gas connections in the basement of each home in the block; and checking the abandoned mains of the old central heating system.

"So far we have no clues," he said. "But we'll keep on looking," he assured.

South's Color Barrier Is Being Broken Down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Negroes are peacefully breaking color barriers at formerly all-white Southern colleges and universities in sharp contrast to the bitter demonstrations that greeted Autherine Lucy's attempt to attend the University of Alabama.

Eight Southern states have accepted Negroes in both graduate and undergraduate divisions, a press survey showed today. No violence attended these changes which upset patterns that had stood for generations.

Arkansas admitted a Negro to its university law school in 1948. There was no incident. Hundreds have followed quietly.

Other Dixie states with Negro students ranging from a handful to hundreds include Oklahoma, Texas, Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana. In none of these states has there been any violence. Many of the Negroes live in campus dormitories and most eat in school cafeterias with the white students.

A few have been admitted into professional fraternities but there is little social mingling.

Most of the schools which have admitted Negroes, either voluntarily or under court order, had no exact figures. Estimates range from 500 to more than 1,000 in the eight states which practice collegiate integration.

Dr. Guy Johnson, professor of social science at the University of North Carolina, has completed a study of the subject and estimates that about 1,000 Negroes are in state-supported Southern colleges with another 1,000 in privately endowed institutions.

A federal court order broke the racial barrier in North Carolina last fall at the general college level when three Negroes enrolled at the university at Chapel Hill. One lives in a dormitory on the campus and the other two plan to move in next fall. All say they get along well with their white classmates.

Both the university and N.C. State have Negro graduate students.

Meantime in Los Angeles, the president of that city's branch of the National Assn for the Advancement of Colored People described Autherine Stevenson's position on civil rights as "absolutely not acceptable" to his group.

"By his words alone, Autherine Stevenson has made it impossible for Negroes anywhere to support him in good conscience," Thomas G. Neusom, president of the 25,000-member Los Angeles branch of the NAACP, declared.

During his recent three-day visit in Los Angeles, Stevenson said he did not believe segregation should be enforced with federal troops. He also declined to endorse the Powell amendment which would withhold federal funds to school districts which practiced segregation.

Neusom said he believes segregation is the most important issue in the campaign. He added that his branch of the NAACP judges a candidate "first on his attitude on civil rights. If he's all right on civil rights, he's bound to be all right on other issues."

Doctors Say He Appears Fit For 5-10 Years

Joyful Republicans See Only 'Yes' Answer To Second Term Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower left by plane today for a Georgia vacation that may well bring him to a decision as to seeking a second term.

The President took off in his plane Columbine III less than 24 hours after his doctors reported to him and to the nation that there is no medical barrier to his running again and serving another term if elected.

He is bound for Thomasville, Ga., and a week's stay at the estate of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey near there.

The President planned to get in some quail hunting and perhaps some golf.

From six physicians who examined him, the verdict was that he appeared fit for "another 5 to 10 years" in the presidency.

But the doctors offered no advice as to whether he should run.

But joyful Republicans predicted that Eisenhower now will be convinced to run again.

DEMOCRATS voiced gratification at the extent of Eisenhower's recovery. A few of them, along with at least one Republican, maintained, however, that his final answer will be "no."

"The choice regarding a second term is his, not ours," said Dr. Paul Dudley White, the noted heart specialist from Boston, in explaining the medical report and his colleagues gave Eisenhower.

Dr. White told reporters today that his estimate that the President should be able to "carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to ten years" was based on statistics. But, he added, "there are all kinds of statistics and you can't depend on them."

The President's six doctors said in a prepared statement Eisenhower "has made a good recovery" from the heart attack he suffered Sept. 24, and his health "continues to be satisfactory."

Eisenhower undoubtedly will give the physicians' report careful consideration before he makes his announcement, which he has indicated will come around March 1. But he told a news conference a week ago today:

"I think I will probably trust my own feelings more than I will the doctors' report."

The uncertainty of the President's life, or any man's, was illustrated by his personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder who said:

"I thought he was in very good health just prior to his heart attack (last September) . . . We don't know that he won't have another cardiac accident."

"Like all Americans," said Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson, "I am of course delighted at the favorable report on the condition of the President's health."

SEN. LYNDON B. JOHNSON of Texas, Democratic floor leader, said:

"As a fellow human being who has gone through the same thing, I am very pleased that the medical report is so favorable. I know every American will be happy."

Johnson suffered a heart attack last July.

Sen. Duff (R-Pa.) said he feels confident "the President will be a candidate again in order that he may continue the program he has so magnificently begun."

But in the opinion of Rep. William M. Ayres (R-Ohio), Eisenhower will refuse to be a candidate again.

"In my judgment, President

Icy Air Mass Spreads Over Midwest Area

(By The Associated Press)

Icy air spread across wide areas of the Midwest from the northern Rockies today as most of the South and East enjoyed mild winter weather.

The cold air from Canada, which kept temperatures below zero along the Canadian border in Montana and the Dakotas, moved southeastward into the upper and middle Mississippi valleys and the western Great Lakes region.

At the same time warm moist air from the Gulf of Mexico extended northeastward from the Gulf Coast through the Ohio Valley to New England as well as along the entire Atlantic Seaboard. Readings were in the low 60s in the Ohio Valley and considerably warmer than 24 hours earlier in areas east of the Appalachians.

Precipitation was reported in both the cold and mild sections. Showers and thunderstorms hit parts of the west and central Gulf states and in the Ohio Valley. Scattered snow flurries fell in the northern and central Plains and in the northern Rockies. Snow showers were reported in western Washington and Oregon.

In the rain belt, heaviest falls were in the Ohio Valley and middle Mississippi Valley.

This morning it was 22 below in Cut Bank, Mont., while Havre, Mont., reported -13, which was 19 degrees lower than 24 hours earlier.

Eight Southern states have accepted Negroes in both graduate and undergraduate divisions, a press survey showed today. No violence attended these changes which upset patterns that had stood for generations.

Arkansas admitted a Negro to its university law school in 1948. There was no incident. Hundreds have followed quietly.

Other Dixie states with Negro students ranging from a handful to hundreds include Oklahoma, Texas, Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana. In none of these states has there been any violence. Many of the Negroes live in campus dormitories and most eat in school cafeterias with the white students. A few have been admitted into professional fraternities but there is little social mingling.

Most of the schools which have admitted Negroes, either voluntarily or under court order, had no exact figures. Estimates range from 500 to more than 1,000 in the eight states which practice collegiate integration.

Dr. Guy Johnson, professor of social science at the University of North Carolina, has completed a study of the subject and estimates that about 1,000 Negroes are in state-supported Southern colleges with another 1,000 in privately endowed institutions.

A federal court order broke the racial barrier in North Carolina last fall at the general college level when three Negroes enrolled at the university at Chapel Hill. One lives in a dormitory on the campus and the other two plan to move in next fall. All say they get along well with their white classmates.

Both the university and N.C. State have Negro graduate students.

Meantime in Los Angeles, the president of that city's branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People described Adlai Stevenson's position on civil rights as "absolutely not acceptable" to his group.

"By his words alone, Adlai Stevenson has made it impossible for Negroes anywhere to support him in good conscience," Thomas G. Neusom, president of the 25,000-member Los Angeles branch of the NAACP, declared.

During his recent three-day visit in Los Angeles, Stevenson said he did not believe segregation should be enforced with federal troops. He also declined to endorse the Powell amendment which would withhold federal funds to school districts which practiced segregation.

Neusom said the most important issue in the campaign. He added that his branch of the NAACP judges a candidate "first on his attitude on civil rights. If he's all right on civil rights, he's bound to be all right on other issues."

Doctors Say He Appears Fit For 5-10 Years

Joyful Republicans See Only 'Yes' Answer To Second Term Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower left by plane today for a Georgia vacation that may well bring him to a decision as to seeking a second term.

The President took off in his plane Columbine III less than 24 hours after his doctors reported to him and to the nation that there is no medical barrier to his running again and serving another term if elected.

He is bound for Thomasville, Ga., and a week's stay at the estate of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey near there.

The President planned to get in some quail hunting and perhaps some golf.

From six physicians who examined him, the verdict was that he appeared fit for "another 5 to 10 years" in the presidency.

But the doctors offered no advice as to whether he should run. But joyful Republicans predicted that Eisenhower now will be convinced to run again.

DEMOCRATS voiced gratification at the extent of Eisenhower's recovery. A few of them, along with at least one Republican, maintained, however, that his final answer will be "no."

"The choice regarding a second term is his, not ours," said Dr. Paul Dudley White, the noted heart specialist from Boston, in explaining the medical report he and his colleagues gave Eisenhower.

Dr. White told reporters today that his estimate that the President should be able to "carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to ten years" was based on statistics. But, he added, "there are all kinds of statistics and you can't depend on them."

The President's six doctors said in a prepared statement Eisenhower "has made a good recovery" from the heart attack he suffered Sept. 24, and his health "continues to be satisfactory."

Eisenhower undoubtedly will give the physicians' report careful consideration before he makes his announcement, which he has indicated will come around March 1. But he told a news conference a week ago today:

"I think I will probably trust my own feelings more than I will the doctors' report."

The uncertainty of the President's life, or any man's, was illustrated by his personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder who said:

"I thought he was in very good health just prior to his heart attack (last September) . . . We don't know that he won't have another cardiac accident."

"Like all Americans," said Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson, "I am of course delighted at the favorable report on the condition of the President's health."

SEN. LYNDON B. Johnson of Texas, Democratic floor leader, said:

"As a fellow human being who has gone through the same thing, I am very pleased that the medical report is so favorable. I know every American will be happy."

Johnson suffered a heart attack last July.

Sen. Duff (R-Pa.) said he feels confident "the President will be a candidate again in order that he may continue the program he has so magnificently begun."

But in the opinion of Rep. William M. Ayres (R-Ohio), Eisenhower will refuse to be a candidate again.

Landslide Clogs Bridge Approach

IRONTON (AP) — A landslide from a hill overlooking U. S. 52 at the approach of the Coal Grove-Ashland, Ky., bridge early today wrecked a gas station and tied up traffic.

The bridge is located about three miles southeast of here.

A state highway patrolman said no one was injured in the landslide which he said was caused by a long stretch of wet weather. The slide, still moving slowly, threatens the N & W Railroad tracks located on the Ohio side of the bridge, between U. S. 52 and the Ohio River.

Story of Fights Told To Lions By Tut Jackson

Former Ring Champ
Of Ohio Says Men
Of His Day Tougher

Washington C. H. Most illustrious sports figure was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Washington C. H. Lions club meeting held Tuesday evening at the Country Club.

James Clem (Tut) Jackson who fought in 20 states during his ring career from 1929 to 1933 was the speaker. Introduced by Don Gibson, "Tut" traced step by step the stages of his life.

Vice President John Breiner presided at the meeting in the absence of President Dustin Gorton.

Secretary Tom Mark announced that at the present the club is made up of 112 active members of which 95 were present at the meeting.

The newest members of the club, Talmadge Taylor, Jesse Persinger, Forest Harper and Frank Dill, were introduced.

Guests at the meeting were Clovis Graves with Mac Dews, Eddie Cobb with Dr. James McCoy and Harold (Babe) Maddux with Paul Rodenfels.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made that the regular meeting of the Good Hope Lions Club will be held Thursday evening, President Gorton of the Washington C. H. Club will show his movies of the 1955 Rose Bowl parade and game. In addition the Washington C. H. Club will present the Good Hope Club with a road sign noting the regular meeting time of the club.

Breiner, general chairman of the 1956 Lions Club Minstrel Show, announced that the chorus and end men practices had been well attended and progress of the show in general was rapidly nearing completion. The show will be staged on Tuesday Feb. 28 in the high school auditorium.

Tickets were distributed at the meeting to the members and are now on sale by all members of the club.

Richard Rankin and Gorton were celebrating wedding anniversaries Tuesday and the group stood and sang "Happy Anniversary" to Rankin. Gorton was not present.

"TUT" JACKSON, in telling of his 14 years in the ring, recalled that he fought two and three times a week on many occasions. Some nights he would meet more than one fighter. He was known as the heavyweight champion of Ohio during his career, having met and beaten the best in the state.

Employed in a furniture store here as a young man at $6 per week, "Tut" started his career at the Fairgrounds in 1919 when he stayed three rounds at an "Athletic Show." Next, he took part in battles royal which were held in Washington C. H.

His first professional bout was a six-rounder in Dayton which he won. At one time in his climb to the top he knocked out 39 opponents in succession.

It was at old Triangle Park in Dayton that he met and beat Sam Langford. Following that he appeared in vaudeville in Cleveland and was paid $1,250 a week for two weeks.

The biggest fight of his career was in Ebbets Field in Brooklyn where he met Harry Wills for the colored heavyweight championship of the world.

"Tut" weighed 190 pounds for that fight which had more than $100,000 paid in admissions. He lost that fight in the third round when Wills broke three of his ribs with one jab.

ANOTHER important fight in his day was with George Geffrey in Madison Square Garden in New York City. He lost that one in 5 1/2 rounds by a knockout.

"Tut" described his career as one of up-and-down. He would train hard and rack up a series of victories, then meet the best at the time and lose. Then he would start over again on his climb to the top.

During his time in the ring, "Tut" said he had both hands broken in addition to his ribs and the numerous cuts and black-eyes.

At the conclusion of his story, numerous questions were asked of him from the floor.

Describing Jack Dempsey the best fighter of all time, he went on to say the fighters of today don't compare with the ones of his era. Today's fighters, he said, do not train as hard in the ring or on the road. They lead with their right hand, something that was never done in his day. The number of cuts suffered today by fighters is greater than years ago due to the change in style, he said.

Calling attention to the beautiful stained glass window in the Second Baptist Church on Columbus Ave., "Tut" recalled that he donated the money for its purchase.

At the conclusion, he was warmly thanked for appearing in the Lions Club Ring and staging one of the best fighting talks ever to be given before that club.

Lag In Combatting Delinquency In Ohio Scored By Judge Brubaker

"Ohio is 20 years behind in dealing with juvenile delinquency," Juvenile Court Judge Robert Brubaker, told an audience of PTA members at Sunnyside School Tuesday evening.

Discussing the whole problem of juvenile delinquency, its cause and its cures, he attacked the state's lack of a "logical program" of correction.

A mental health program is the core of a sound approach to the problem of delinquency, Judge Brubaker said.

The $150,000,000 bond issue passed by voters in last November's election is a step toward that program, he said, but he stressed that the bond issue "came from the people and not from the administration."

The bond issue, put on the ballot as an initiative action set up a five-year construction program for mental hospitals, correctional institutions and schools.

But a building program, much as it is needed to relieve overcrowding, will not solve the problem, the judge warned. "There's a shortage of personnel even now," he said. "A building program won't change that."

CHILDREN who come under the jurisdiction of his court, Judge Brubaker said, fall into three classes: delinquent, neglected and dependent.

Often, he pointed out, children in the latter two classes may become delinquent as well. From this, he drew his recommendations for the prevention of delinquency.

The home is where the problem should be stalled before it starts, he declared. "We talk about juvenile delinquents," he said. "More often, we should be talking about delinquent parents."

Steps that parents can take to help stamp out the possibility of delinquency in their own families, Judge Brubaker said, include: Giving proper supervision; Setting children a good example; Stressing religion in the home and seeing that youngsters develop a healthy attitude toward the law.

ON A COMMUNITY level, delinquency can be reduced sharply by a sound mental health program, good teachers in the schools and recreational facilities for youngsters.

Fayette County needs a broader mental health program with full-time workers, Judge Brubaker said. Better recreational facilities are needed, with guidance all along the line.

As a means to giving children the recreational guidance they need, he suggested the adoption here of a "Big Brother" program like that adopted in many other communities. Under that program, community leaders volunteer to act as recreation leaders.

At the close of his talk, Judge Brubaker was presented with a gift from the PTA.

THE BUSINESS meeting that preceded Judge Brubaker's talk was opened by the president, Mrs. Warner Penrod.

The group repeated the Lord's Prayer and heard secretary's and treasurer's reports from Mrs. Leroy Bennett and Mrs. Penrod. The treasury now stands at $226.83, Mrs. Penrod said.

The next regular meeting was scheduled for April 10, but the meeting has been postponed a week.

The original date conflicted with the citywide PTA meeting, at which C. B. Montis will speak. Montis is a humorous speaker whose talk, according to Prin.

Leo Whiteside, should appeal to children who are taking or about to take courses in history.

The Sunnyside meeting, to be held April 17, will be an important one, Mrs. Penrod said. It will feature election of officers following a potluck supper.

Prin. Whiteside spoke briefly about the $200 college scholarship which the city PTA Council hopes to award annually to a deserving high school graduate. Perhaps, he suggested, PTA members would be able to help in the work of raising the money.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Dwight Martin, the program chairman, introduced the speaker. Refreshments were served after adjournment.

Ike Ponders

Eisenhower will not be a candidate in 1956," the congressman told a Lincoln Day dinner in Alhambra, Calif. "But he will be the most effective campaigner we have ever seen. He believes in the honesty and integrity of the people."

Ayres, who declined to state the basis of his views, said he believes the White House will have an announcement "on that subject" about Feb. 23.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said there is "a great deal of difference between carrying on the full load of the presidency and just staying in the White House."

"THERE'S A great deal of difference too between staying in the White House and carrying on an active campaign for the presidency," Sparkman said. "The President has indicated he will take these factors into consideration. When he weighs everything, I still believe he won't run."

The stock market opened active and sharply higher in the wake of the announcement by the doctors. Prices of key issues were up from one to four dollars a share in the opening minutes. Transactions were so heavy that the high-speed ticker tape fell behind.

The feeling on Wall Street is that Eisenhower is closer to heading 1956 GOP ticket than at any time since his heart attack.

Odd Fellows Plan Campaign

Some of the highlights in the history of Temple Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows here were recounted at Tuesday night's open meeting.

Since this marked the beginning of the 1956 IOOF membership campaign, several non-members were guests at the meeting.

Temple Lodge will be 102 years old on March 13, the meeting was told. Some of the older members recalled the "glories" of the lodge in the days when it flourished here as one of the community's leading fraternal organizations.

Following the more formal phases of the meeting, there was an informal get-together while the hamburgers were served.

Promotion Meet Set For Scout-O-Rama

The 1956 Scout-O-Rama will be an even bigger event than the 1955 version, Boy Scout executives predicted today as they planned the meeting that will kick off ticket sales here.

On hand for the meeting, slated for 7:30 P. M. Thursday at the Grace Methodist Church, will be ticket chairman from each of the county's 15 Cub, Scout and Explorer units.

Members of the units will sell tickets to the annual Scouting extravaganza, to be held this year on March 17 and 18 at the State Fairgrounds near Columbus.

One Fayette County unit, Cub Pack 229 of Cherry Hill School, will be among the more than 200 putting on demonstrations in Fair booths. As many as nine other Fayette units may participate in the "circus" shows in the arena, Scouts said.

Thursday's ticket sales meeting will be headed by Robert Parish, district finance chairman, with Jack Fox of the district staff and Robert Poppen, field Scout executive, on hand to assist him.

Eber Begins Milk Program

PTO Bought Cooler
To Spark Program

Eber School's "milk at recess" program is well underway, members of the Eber PTO were told at their meeting Tuesday evening at the school.

Youngsters now can buy chocolate milk for 3 cents a bottle and plain milk for 2 cents, under the state surplus milk program.

Key to the program was the PTO's purchase of a refrigerator for milk storage, reported John Burke, a member of the committee which bought the refrigerator.

At Tuesday's meeting, the PTO voted to buy milk for those youngsters who might not otherwise be able to participate in the program.

Other new projects were set in motion as the group voted to buy more play equipment, including bats and balls, jump ropes and "rainy day" games for use indoors.

A committee was set up to investigate prices and features of electric mixers. If the committee finds a "best buy," the group will purchase it for the school kitchen.

Charles Woods heads the committee. Charles Burke and Alvin Sexton are the other members.

THE MEETING was opened by Loring Harrop, PTO president. John Frederick led the group in repeating the Lord's Prayer and secretary's and treasurer's reports were submitted by Mrs. Robert Hyer and Harrop.

The program and refreshment committees for the next meeting, March 13, were set up at the close of the business meeting.

The program committee will be headed by Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Halliday. Other members are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyer and Mrs. John Frederick.

On the refreshment committee for the next session are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carman, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curtin, Mr. and Mrs. Loring Harrop and Mrs. Emerson Chapman.

After the business meeting, the members and their youngsters watched a slide showing staged by Mrs. John Trace, Mr. and Mrs. Trace took the pictures while they were on the staff of a Samoan school.

Rotarians Are Entertained By Local Speaker

President Of Fish And Game Association Discusses Wild Life

William Holdren of this city, president of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association, entertained Rotarians and guests at the club's Tuesday luncheon meeting with a very interesting talk and colored slides of a two-fold nature, control of predatory animals and birds and of deer hunting in Pennsylvania and Michigan.

Introduced to the audience by Thurman Sheppard of the February program committee, the speaker related in an interesting and informal manner, many of his own experiences in the two neighboring states in the deer hunting season, well illustrated with pictures. Some of these showed the long walks back to the cabins, where he and other members of his hunting party stayed, pulling through heavy snows the dead bodies of deer which had been shot.

THE OTHER pictures were for the most part taken in Fayette County and neighboring localities, showing the feeding and care given to wild life. Also well depicted were the destruction of fox and their young, in some cases with the evidence strewn about their dens of the chickens, pheasants, rabbits and birds which they had preyed upon.

During the course of his remarks on this subject Holdren said that in his judgment the number of fox running wild in Fayette County today was greater than any time before in his memory.

In the showing of the colored slides numerous Fayette County men were seen, who have been taking part in the destruction of fox and in building shelters and furnishing food for wild life. Frequently seen also were piles of predatory hawks and crows which had been killed.

WHEN HE concluded with his talk and pictures, Holdren was cordially thanked by President Paul Dougherty for his excellent program.

President Dougherty, previous to the regular program, again called attention to the Rotary district meeting at Cincinnati on Feb. 26 and 27 which quite a number of local Rotarians and their Annas are reported planning to attend.

He also again reminded Rotarians of the need for an all-out sale of tickets through which the club hopes to greatly aid its youth fund in various projects including its support of Little League Baseball.

BIRTHDAY greetings were sung at this Tuesday club luncheon for C. E. Rhoad, Fred Rost and W. F. Himmelspach who made the usual contributions to the youth fund.

Visiting Rotarians were William Endres, Robert C. Jackson and R. H. Pachter from Mt. Sterling; Roy Vandegriff, Greenfield; George

B. Ganyard, Columbus and John E. Moore from London. A visitor who was a guest of Pres. Dougherty was Mac Dews, Jr.

The three Washington High School student guests, presented by Don Wood were Robert Graves, Robert Cotner and Larry Fisher. The latter made a very pleasant response for all three.

By W. A. SMITH
(City School Superintendent)

Mrs. Watts' third graders at Rose Avenue School have written a book of their very own, produced their own cover, and bound it for posterity. It is now in their room library along with their commercially produced library books.

The project was the practical application of the things they had been studying in English.

In their grammar lesson they were studying about the proper construction and writing of paragraphs. The idea was proposed that they write a book of their own, which met with immediate enthusiasm.

Each child wrote a paragraph about his own pet. Then he found a picture, or drew one, to illustrate his paragraph. After all were completed, they were bound together and Faith Ann Lyons designed and made the cover.

These third graders now have a forty page book of which they are very proud, and they have benefited by making it themselves.

Baptist Youth Pick Fellowship Heads

New officers, were elected at a recent meeting of the junior high Baptist Youth Fellowship, with Eileen Picklesimer elected as president and Linda Hurtt as vice president.

Eileen put on a program at the meeting, with the aid of Beulah Hooks, Connie Iles and Rita Fredrick.

Billie Edmonson opened the meeting with song service led by Marta Mickle and Joan Lytle. Linda Hurtt read from the Scriptures and Marta closed with prayer.

There were 17 members present. Three new members attending were Barbara Shoop, David Hanley and Brenda Armstrong. There was one visitor, Martha Blades.

The meeting closed with Friendship Circle.

Style Show Set For Children

Women's Groups Sponsor Affair

Committees of the Mothers Circle and the Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church today were putting together plans for a style show that is to be given the night of Feb. 24 in the Washington C. H. High School auditorium.

This style show is to be different; it is to be a show of children's styles, complete with youthful models.

The clothes for the show are to come from The Children's Shop here. The young models—40 to 50 of them from 2 to 12 years old—will be the same harem-scarem kids who worry their mothers with their rough and careless treatment of their clothes. But, for this show they will be on their best behavior—or so their mothers hope—temporarily at least.

THE TWO organizations—both of which are made up of women who are vitally interested in children's clothes—are sponsoring the show for two primary reasons: (1) raise a little money for their treasuries and (2) give the parents and grandparents of the community a parade of something in which they are deeply interested, children and children's clothes.

Members of the sponsoring organizations have been selling tickets to the style show for some time now.

The reason for their enthusiastic sales campaign is obvious: Each organization gets 80 percent of the money from the tickets it sells. They also split 80 percent of the money from the sale of tickets at the door. The 20 percent that the organizations won't get is to be set aside for the estimated expense of putting on the show.

Mrs. Paul F. Rodenfels is chairman of the Mother's Circle committee and Mrs. Robert Wise is chairman of the St. Andrew's Women's Auxiliary committee.

AN ORDER FOR A VALENTINE

Yo ho! Yo ho! O, merchant mine! Bring me your loveliest valentine; One with tracteries soft and fair, Dappled with tints that are subtle and rare;

Flecked with glimmer of gold and blue, Silver spanned with a rainbow too; One embellished with birds and flowers, Gamboling nymphs in scented bowers;

Idylls woven of Cupid's lore, Spangled over with hearts galore. Choose it carefully, merchant mine Something delicate, soft and fine; Arrow-fretted with shimmering spray

Netted over with tinsel gay; Potent with every artful guile That will cozen her glad, young smile; Lilac scented, if it may be, Like the zephyrs of Arcady;

One, O, merchant, that's fit and meet For a lassie who's fair and sweet. This is my order, O, merchant mine, For your loveliest valentine.

THE LAND OF NO-RETURN

There is a Land of No-Return Beyond the stars that woo and burn;

The prophets long ago foretold Its jasper walls and streets of gold;

No glimmer of its shining height Has ever pierced the molten night That lies between the starry zone And the impenetrable unknown.

No wandering note of song or cheer Has ever fallen on the ear; Yet, ever upward, one by one, When days are dead, and life is done,

The valiant souls of men arise To challenge the unconquered skies;

Not even science can discern The mystic Land of No-Return.

Is This Just More Inter-Service Rivalry?

The millions of Americans who are not well informed on the technicalities regarding the guided missile military program have been somewhat in the dark over some of the alarmist cries being heard regarding it.

Among those who are giving special thought to the situation, there is a feeling that the loud cries of "danger" and the great apprehension called to public attention by Sen. Stuart Symington (Dem. of Missouri) can be discounted to a very heavy percent.

Symington who was Secretary of the Air Force under President Truman, has always shown his definite partiality toward the air branch of national military service. He has frequently talked before Congress as principal spokesman for the Air Force.

At the same time, both the Army and Navy come forward with claims and figures to prove that they should have equal consideration in all matters.

The inside controversy of the issue over guided missiles which has brought forth shouts of alarm from Sen. Symington and a few other legislators, and which appears to have provoked the rather elaborate protest resignation of Trevor Gardner,

Assistant Air Force Secretary for Research and Development, actually appears as an inter-service rivalry in the guided missile field. The Army has an elaborate program in that field; the Navy has an even more elaborate one. Air Force partisans are convinced not only that the other Services are stealing their thunder but also that guided missiles are mainly if not exclusively the business of the Air Force.

It is highly improbable that the Soviet Union has any significant lead over the United States in guided missiles; still, the matter should be threshed out promptly. But it is just as important to get this inter-service dispute threshed out and settlement and responsibility fixed, even if Air Force protagonists have so far avoided bringing it up in the current ruckus.

Vital strategic and tactical concepts are involved, for guided missiles are weapons which all three services require. Perhaps the main question is not whether the Air Force should have control over research and development of missiles for use by land and sea as well as air components, but whether it would be practicable to centralize the programs of all three Services under an agency of the Department of Defense.

Just A Sprig Of Diamonds

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—The war between the sexes reached a kind of climax yesterday—Valentine's Day.

This is the one day of the year that separates the men from the boys when it comes to the matter of dealing with the feminine gender.

Women, generally the stern realists of the human race, seem to come apart at the seams at this season. They appear lost in a cloud of moonbeams. Their usual whims of iron become whims of molasses. They are alternately demanding and placating, wistful and petulant.

"What gets into women around Valentine's Day anyway?" the ordinary man grumbles. "What do they want?"

That part of the problem is simple. A child may believe in Santa Claus all year round, but it is the present it finds under the tree at Christmas that confirms its belief.

Women are like that about love. Through most of the year a man can talk them into believing he loves them dearly, but at Valentine they want something more in the way of proof than conversation.

The age or size of the present you give them isn't so important. Often a small sprig of old diamonds will please them as much as a big heavy new mink coat. The main thing is that you remember them in a special way.

The bachelor, of course, is in special peril at this time. He may find that the box of candy he buys a girl at Valentine will wind up by June into a honeymoon he has to pay for on the installment plan.

How can the cagy bachelor please his girl at Valentine and still not commit himself unalterably?

Here is a good sound tip for next year: Present her with an Irish sweepstakes ticket. If her horse wins, she'll have enough dowsy to set him up in business. If her horse loses, he can then tell her, "So long, kid. It's been nice knowing you, but I gave you your chance. You can't expect an ambitious guy like me to tie himself up for life to a hard luck dame like you."

What about the married man? Well, oddly enough, Valentine's day is no longer merely a single girl's racket. Wives have muscled into it on a wholesale scale.

A wife expects something extra from her husband on this day dedicated to love, even if she has to nudge her forgetful mate into presenting her with a black eye.

But such is the understanding nature of most wives, however, that it isn't really difficult to please them, bless their gentle souls.

Here are a few suggestions on how to surprise your wife on Valentine's Day next year and still remain solvent:

1. Send her the biggest, mushiest, most red-ribbon - bedecked card you can find, but remember not to use your business signature. If she ever called you by a pet name, sign this. Statistics show that more husbands than single men buy the sentimental three-buck Valentines.

2. Are you a do-it-yourself fan? Carve up one of your kids' old yo-yos into a heart shape and box it with a card reading: "No other girl in the world could string me along but you, baby."

3. If you're a real cheap skate and want to save dough, buy a gooey dime card, and sign it with one of your wife's old high school lovers. When she proudly shows it to you, throw a real jealous fit. That'll put her on the defensive.

On the other hand, if she doesn't show it to you, you may have something to worry about a lot more serious than Valentine's Day.

But, above all, restrain any urge to be comic. I know of a husband who 10 years ago sent his wife a get-well card on St. Valentine's Day—and he's still paying alimony today.

Men With Hearts And Patriotism

By George Sokolsky

Alfred Kohlberg, the manufacturer of handkerchiefs, always referred to himself as "the China lobby." Whenever the State Department tried to arrange a real whopper about China, they found themselves inconvenienced by the very existence of this short, bald - headed man who not only knew what he was talking about but backed his judgment with his own money. Senator Wayne Morse and others tried to discover whether Kohlberg got subsidies from Chiang Kai-Shek but the evidence is complete that he spent his own cash which an American has the right to do. If the Fund for the Republic can spend $15,000,000 propagating the aberrations of Robert Hutchins, Kohlberg was and is entitled to spend his dollars telling the truth about China.

When Kohlberg got his coronary, I felt there goes an American Diogenes, a seeker after the truth. But Kohlberg's coronary did not kill him; it may have slowed him up. His doctors may have been stricter than mine but mine are smarter because there is more damage in fretting than in doing a little mental chore that lets the steam off, as the saying is. Fellows like Alfred Kohlberg and perhaps myself must tell the citizens what they think and believe and take the bricksbats of contention from those who are equally sure of themselves but who have done no investigating. At any rate, for a while Kohlberg's coronary shut him up. But he survived the enforced silence as he did the busted heart and is undoubtedly now preparing to defend his country's honor at Matsuo and Quemoy.

He and I organized, with others, the American Jewish League Against Communism and there must be a jinx about it because my coronary came during my presidency of this organization as his did. This is a good operation because it states categorically what so many of my coreligionists are now discovering, namely, that Soviet Russia and the communists are universally the enemies, as they must be, of the Jews and of everything Jewish. This must be so because they hate God. Sooner or later those Moslems who, for political profit, are now playing footsies with the Kremlin will discover that it does not pay, because those who hate God must bring misery in their wake. They must be brutal and cruel and deceitful. We, who organized the American Jewish League Against Communism, set out to establish beyond doubt that every communist, even if born of Jewish parents, must be regarded as an enemy of all Jews and of everything Jewish.

So we fought a tough battle with little support but with sureness in the righteousness of our cause. And today, after Khrushchev's exhibition of hatred for the Jews, it is impossible not to recognize that we were right, although a bit early. At any rate, if our worries over all this helped to give Kohlberg and myself our coronaries, it was done in a good cause and that is something of a compensation.

We might have got our frustrations from horses or blondes and that would not have been too good for our consciences, which is very important when you lie on a hospital bed. There is so much to think about in these long days of enforced idleness and silence. And the mind has a way of coming up with all the things that we should not have done; the little foibles; the small hatreds; the picayune vindictiveness. Too bad that we did all these small things when there is so much of great value to do in this life.

Alfred Kohlberg has devoted himself to ferreting out the lies that have been perpetrated about China, about Nationalist China. He was a quiet, peaceful business man, manufacturing handkerchiefs and such items when he began to wonder why the Institute of Pacific Relations was a power-house of falsehood about China. He got into an argument over that question more than a decade ago and what history has been made since then. It is a remarkable example of devoted citizenship. When Kohlberg started, he was not a partisan of any side; now he calls himself the proprietor of "the China lobby," which is correct because he pays all the bills, even to having a coronary.

Infection A Cause Of Rheumatic Fever

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

This, unfortunately, is the season for rheumatic fever.

Primarily a disease of the temperature climates in the northern hemisphere it flourishes in the cold, wet seasons and reaches its peak in late winter and early spring.

As usual, New England and the Rocky Mountain states probably will be hardest hit. The South generally is relatively free of the disease.

Rural Areas

Rural areas have fewer strep infections and rheumatic fever than the urban sections.

Why the weather should have an effect on the disease we don't exactly know. Neither do we know whether the tendency for the disease to pick on members of the same family is due to natural inheritance or environment.

But we do know that all brothers and sisters of a rheumatic fever victim should be examined for the disease. It might be well for their parents to have a thorough checkup, too.

Among the Poor

Proportionately few cases are found among well-to-do families, while many are discovered among the poor. Poor and crowded homes and bad working conditions help spread the strep infections which open the door to the disease.

Rheumatic fever seems to occur especially in homes made drafty and damp by broken windows, leaky roofs or poor cellars.

While rheumatic fever is not catching, the triggering strep infection is.

Early symptoms of the disease may be slight and may take on many forms. Even though you shouldn't try to diagnose the disease yourself, you must learn to recognize the danger signals so that you can notify your doctor quickly.

Usual Symptoms

Some symptoms which may occur singly or in combinations are:

Failure to gain weight, poor appetite, pallor, fatigue, frequent colds and sore throats, low persistent fever, repeated nosebleeds, unusual restlessness, irritability, pain in the arms, legs and joints, twitching or jerky motion (St. Vitus dance, or chorea), or personality and behavior changes.

The most characteristic feature about stricken joints is that the pain flits from one joint to another. Most often the knees, ankles and wrists are involved.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

L. F. T.: I have had a laboratory examination and have been informed that I have low blood sugar. Is this serious?

Answer: As a general rule, low blood sugar is not serious. It will depend upon how low the sugar is and the condition that is producing it.

This disorder may occur as a result of excessive secretion from the pancreas. You should have a careful study made by your family doctor.

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Until he decides finally whether to run again President Eisenhower will be a lonely man, living with his conscience. Because his decision is a matter of conscience, no one can really help him make it.

He said recently, "I could devoutly wish there were some method by which the American people could... point out the path of my true duty. But... this is a question that first I alone must answer."

It would have been easy and necessary for him to decide against seeking a second term if his doctors, after their checkup this week, had said he could not physically endure another four White House years.

They said the opposite Tuesday. In doing so they put the decision entirely up to Eisenhower.

The attack was the result of deterioration in a blood vessel. Something in his body caused that deterioration. So a man who has had an attack has more reason to believe that there is deterioration which will cause another attack than has a man who has never had an attack.

There was no reason for Eisenhower's doctors to think he might have a heart attack, up to last Sept. 24. Now, as he knows, he could have another tomorrow even though his doctors tell him, from what they can see, he could serve actively for 5 to 10 more years.

The uncertainty of the President's life, or any man's, was illustrated Tuesday by his personal physician Maj. Gen. Howard M.

Snyder, who told a news conference:

"I thought he was in very good health just prior to his heart attack—I would say we were a little astray in our estimate that he was as well as we thought he was... We don't know that he won't have another cardiac accident."

That possibility, and what it might mean to the country, will be on Eisenhower's conscience as he turns over the problem in his mind. He has emphasized his decision will be based on what he thinks is good for the country.

Standards Set Up For School Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state board of education has adopted general standards and procedure for needy school districts to receive aid for more classrooms.

State assistance for school construction will be doled out under the seven million dollars appropriated for such purposes by the recent special session of the Ohio Legislature.

Under the standards, school districts must:

Show a critical need for new buildings.

Exhaust all local resources for building funds by voting the legal maximum of nine per cent bonded indebtedness.

Show that building plans are adequate and complete.

Show that 20 per cent or more of the district's pupils are poorly housed.

The board adjourned a two-day meeting Tuesday. It indicated it will discourage district requests for funds to construct school auditoriums, gymnasiums and so-called general purpose rooms in elementary schools as items in the emergency state aid program.

Calling for a "general housecleaning in our colleges," board member Cecil M. Sims of Piqua put part of the blame on the state's present teacher shortage on "more and more requirements" in teacher-training courses.

It has come to the point, he said, "where our young people just are not interested in teaching careers."

BIS Boys Slated For Ordinary Garb

LANCASTER (AP)—From now on, inmates at the Boys Industrial School here can wear ordinary dress clothes.

Clothing now worn by the boys is of a uniform type made by workers at the London Prison Farm, and includes a blue, over-seas-type hat.

School authorities have sent letters to parents and relatives of the inmates telling them they are expected to provide as soon as possible "suitable clothing" for the boys because "this will make possible more individuality for each boy and stimulate each boy to take good care of his own clothing, which is a valuable habit."

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Gerda was born in Europe and has been educated in American schools. We were in school together some years ago and I came to value her as a person and best pal. We are in the same profession, and Gerda is now doing post-graduate study.

Since circumstances have separated us, I try to keep in touch by letter and personal visits when possible. But recently our friendship is threatened by a misunderstanding over gift giving.

I've always tried to be thoughtful about gift-giving—and give from the heart, as an expression of loving and sharing. When I last saw Gerda I asked what she wanted more than anything, and she said, "Money." So at Christmas I sent her $10, together with inexpensive stationery which I thought might be useful (as I'd noticed she didn't have any).

Donor Baffled

Now Gerda has returned the money, and writes she has mailed back the stationery, too. In part her letter says, "You send me money and stationery because you think I need it. This is not your role, not the role of a friend—but of husband, parents, family, or the person herself. Your gift reminds me of the Kwaki Indians of the Northwest, who give gifts to show their superiority to the recipient. You probably had no such intention, but it somehow comes out that way."

Until now I had thought our interests and philosophies were alike. There was never any quarreling in these years of friendship; and generosity has been mutually bestowed (and appreciated) many times. What could have happened in the past year to spark such a reaction from her? Is this a cultural difference not heretofore verbalized? Or, have I given just cause for offense, by an error in judgment or etiquette? And what can I do now?

R. M.

DEAR R. M.: Whatever your errors of judgment or etiquette, in sending gift-money and stationery to Gerda, her outraged response is far, far worse. Her critique of your offerings is boorish and brutally intended. Her ego health is in pretty bad shape, it seems.

The tenor of her letter indicates that she vacillates between self-contempt and intellectual pomposity. She fears patronage, such as might label her inferior; and tends to patronize, as if to assert her supremacy. She is pretty unstable, emotionally.

As for what happened this past year, to upset her so, and cause her to "take it out" on you at Christmas—your guess is as good as mine. But she sounds jealous—as if smarting from a fancied rejection. Maybe she felt your gifts were too offhand—as if you hadn't invested enough fond care in them.

And possibly she construes this to mean that somebody else rates higher in your affections than she does, recently.

Seamy Side Shows

In any case, the nakedly familiar tone of her lecturing letter indicates that she has felt close to you, very much accepted by you, in the preceding chapters of friendship. And now all at once her neurosis is showing. It is characteristic of neurotics, to childishly abuse intimate friendships, by picking flaws in buddies, when unrelated events disturb them. And this trait is especially assertive in persons who are maladjusted to the opposite sex.

If this were merely a cultural difference, and Gerda had good manners, which are always kindly, she would have taken the thought for the deed, as the saying goes, and recognizing your intent to please, would have thanked you nicely, even supposing you'd pulled a boner.

As for how to handle the incident, you've done nothing to apologize for, so don't apologize. But to be civil, you might send Gerda a bland note to say you are sorry your Christmas gifts boomeranged; and you've studied her remarks carefully. Then a line or two about other things, and sign off, amiably. Let her make the next move, and you keep your dignity.

M. H.

Mary Hawthorth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of this newspaper.

99th Birthday

she has her way, she'd be out spading in the garden right now."

"That's why I've lived a long life," Mrs. McCoy commented. "Hard work."

MRS. MCCOY has been pursuing her formula of hard work ever since she was born on Feb. 14, 1857, in Brown County. For the past two decades, she's had to slack off a bit, she admits, but she still does everything she can.

"She knits all the time," Mrs. Lydy said. "And she visits with the people who come to see her."

Among the most frequent of those visitors is another daughter, Mrs. Mae Ellis of Jeffersonville. Two other daughters also live in Ohio, Mrs. William Grove of Dayton and Mrs. Robert Harley of Bethel.

Mrs. McCoy's memory isn't confined to her birthdays. She also remembers, among other things, the day when she first heard news of Lincoln's death.

That's only one of hundreds of events covering nearly a century that Mrs. McCoy remembers. And she's missing nothing nowadays, either.

Her black eyes sparkled Tuesday as her daughters and other visitors wished her a happy birthday.

"And many happy returns," she added, chuckling.

After 30 Years, Cleveland Lawyer Still Explains Zoning

CLEVELAND (AP)—The big chief justice stopped whispering with his Supreme Court colleagues and turned to the little lawyer from Cleveland who already had started his opening statement.

"We mean no discourtesy. We never heard of zoning. We don't know what it means," Chief Justice William Howard Taft said.

Jimmie Metzenbaum was taken back. But he proceeded to explain zoning, using precious time he needed for rebuttal to Newton D. Baker, opposing counsel.

That was on a January day of 1926. The case was Ambler Realty vs. the village of Euclid, a Cleveland suburb which then had about 2,400 people. At issue was the village's authority to zone property within its boundaries.

Against Baker's eloquent arguments that zoning deprived property owners of their rights, Metzenbaum won a decision that first established the constitutionality of municipal zoning for use.

Now, 30 winters later, 72-year-old James Metzenbaum still is explaining what zoning means. He has become perhaps the foremost expert in the land on the subject. And he has much more to explain than when he appeared before the high tribunal carrying all his reference material in two rattan suitcases.

In fact, what he has to say fills three big red volumes just published by Baker, Voorhis & Co., Inc., of New York—2,531 pages entitled "The Law of Zoning." It took Metzenbaum 11 years to write it, and he had a head start on the task in a one-volume work he finished in 1930 after eight years labor.

A dapper, energetic fellow who likes bow ties and boutonnieres, Metzenbaum budgets his time in minutes. That he has given years from his half century of successful law practice to a self-appointed and non-remunerative study of zoning seems somewhat surprising. Especially so, after one hears the grey-haired former state senator admit his reaction to zoning ordinances is:

"Who wants to read pages and pages of that crazy stuff?"

But in matters of public welfare, Metzenbaum long has demonstrated keen interest, and, in his own words:

"Zoning touches the well-being of more than 100 million Americans today."

It does more than keep the stockyard away from the library or put space between the fireworks factory and the apartment house. An understanding of zoning law, Metzenbaum maintains, is vital to thousands of public officials and industrialists whose decisions today can build or blight cities of tomorrow.

His new work of zoning is a rarity among law books in that it is written not only for lawyers, but for laymen—for the druggist elected to town council, as well as for the city solicitor. Without a footnote, it tells the history of zoning, its court tests and the way large and small cities apply its principles.

There may be another reason why an unflinching interest in zoning has stayed with Metzenbaum even beyond that milestone of age—threescore years and 10. Always he has loved American history, and in the winning arguments he made in the Supreme Court 30 years ago, he helped make some of that history.

Years have not dimmed his memory of how he went in the summer of 1922 to the Euclid Town Hall to help his friend the mayor prepare a zoning ordinance. Its purpose was to keep the fast-spreading factory area at least 1,800 feet away from residential Euclid Ave.

Industry and the railroads rallied behind the Ambler Realty Co. to challenge constitutional validity of the new ordinance. As their champion they hired Baker, a former Cleveland mayor who had won national fame as Woodrow Wilson's secretary of war.

Baker won the first test before Federal District Judge D. C. Westenhaver hands down.

But with the characteristic scrappiness he displayed years later in investigating the administration of Ohio Gov. Martin L. Davey, Metzenbaum was undaunted. Bypassing appellate court, he took the case direct to the final authority, the U.S. Supreme Court.

When arguments ended, Metzenbaum was downcast. He felt the final 15 minutes of Baker's closing speech had scored points that might have been answered, had there been rebuttal time. His gloom deepened when the entire court came off the bench and gathered around Baker. The op-

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

And possibly she construes this to mean that somebody else rates higher in your affections than she does, recently.

Seamy Side Shows

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Gerda was born in Europe and has been educated in American schools. We were in school together some years ago and I came to value her as a person and best friend. We are in the same profession, and Gerda is now doing post-graduate study.

Since circumstances have separated us, I try to keep in touch by letter and personal visits when possible. But recently our friendship is threatened by a misunderstanding over gift-giving.

I've always tried to be thoughtful about gift-giving—and give from the heart, as an expression of love and sharing. When I last saw Gerda I asked what she wanted more than anything, and she said, "Money." So at Christmas I sent her $10, together with inexpensive stationery which I thought might be useful (as I'd noticed she didn't have any).

Donor Baffled

Now Gerda has returned the money, and writes she has mailed back the stationery, too. In part her letter says, "You send me money and stationery because you think I need it. This is not your role, not the role of a friend—but of husband, parents, family, or the person herself. Your gift reminds me of the Kwakiw Indians of the Northwest, who give gifts to show their superiority to the recipient. You probably had no such intention, but it somehow comes out that way."

Until now I had thought our interests and philosophies were alike. There was never any quarreling in these years of friendship; and generosity has been mutually bestowed (and appreciated) many times. What could have happened in the past year to spark such a reaction from her? Is this a cultural difference not heretofore verbalized? Or, have I given just cause for offense, by an error in judgment or etiquette? And what can I do now?

R. M.

DEAR R. M.: Whatever your errors of judgment or etiquette, in sending gift-money and stationery to Gerda, her outraged response is far, far worse. Her critique of your offerings is boorish and brutally intended. Her ego health is in pretty bad shape, it seems.

The tenor of her letter indicates that she vacillates between self-contempt and intellectual pomposity. She fears patronage, such as might label her inferior; and tends to patronize, as if to assert her supremacy. She is pretty unstable, emotionally.

As for what happened this past year, to upset her so, and cause her to "take it out" on you at Christmas—your guess is as good as mine. But she sounds jealous—as if smarting from a fancied rejection. Maybe she felt your gifts were too offhand—as if you hadn't invested enough fond care in them.

Mary Hawthorth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of this newspaper.

99th Birthday

she has, her way, she'd be out spading in the garden right now."

"That's why I've lived a long life," Mrs. McCoy commented.

"Hard work."

MRS. MCCOY has been pursuing her formula of hard work ever since she was born on Feb. 14, 1857, in Brown County. For the past two decades, she's had to slack off a bit, she admits, but she still does everything she can.

"She knits all the time," Mrs. Lydy said. "And she visits with the people who come to see her."

Among the most frequent of those visitors is another daughter, Mrs. Mae Ellis of Jeffersonville. Two other daughters also live in Ohio, Mrs. William Grove of Dayton and Mrs. Robert Harley of Bethel.

Mrs. McCoy's memory isn't confined to her birthdays. She also remembers, among other things, the day when she first heard news of Lincoln's death.

That's only one of hundreds of events covering nearly a century that Mrs. McCoy remembers. And she's missing nothing nowadays, either.

Her black eyes sparkled Tuesday as her daughters and other visitors wished her a happy birthday.

"And many happy returns," she added, chuckling.

After 30 Years, Cleveland Lawyer Still Explains Zoning

Lions Beat Wilmington in Crucial Game

Share Of Title In SCO League Is Now Assured

Taking an early lead, stretching it to what looked like a safe margin and then coming on again like champions after faltering temporarily in the stretch drive, the Lions cagers of Washington C. H. High School today were assured of at least a share of the South Central Ohio League throne after edging the Hurricane from Wilmington, 80 to 75, in the season's crucial game here Tuesday night.

The biggest crowd in several years jammed in to the gym to see this one.

Earlier in the season, the Hurricane swamped the Lions, 83 to 63. This was the ninth win in a row for the Lions and the fourth defeat of the season for the Hurricane.

Before preliminary was over, a "sold out" sign was hung on the doors. The Wilmington reserves won it easily, 56 to 31.

Yelling and screaming students formed a double-line horseshoe shaped aisle through which the Lions raced around the floor when they entered the gym for the game.

The din never let up until after it was over.

No sooner had the buzzer ended the game, then the crowd went wild. Fans, principally students, swarmed onto the floor and literally mauled the Lions, jumping with joy. Suddenly Coach Herb Russell was hoisted onto shoulders as the Lions went to the dressing room.

When he was let down, it was under the shower. He came out smiling broadly, beaming with happiness... and soaking wet.

THIS GAME knocked the Hurricane out of the championship, which it won last year. But, if the Lions are to take the crown, they will have to beat the Tigers at Greenfield in the final game of the season on Feb. 24.

If the Lions played like champions, so did the Wilmington boys. Trailing by 14 points at the end of the third period, they launched a fourth period drive with courage and determination that almost brought them victory.

At one time, about mid-way in that last period, the Lions' lead was whittled to only 3 points.

But there the Hurricane ran out of steam and the Lions got their second wind. They halted the Wilmington drive and got their own offense rolling again after it had bogged down.

The Lions took the lead 5-4 in the first two minutes and never yielded it.

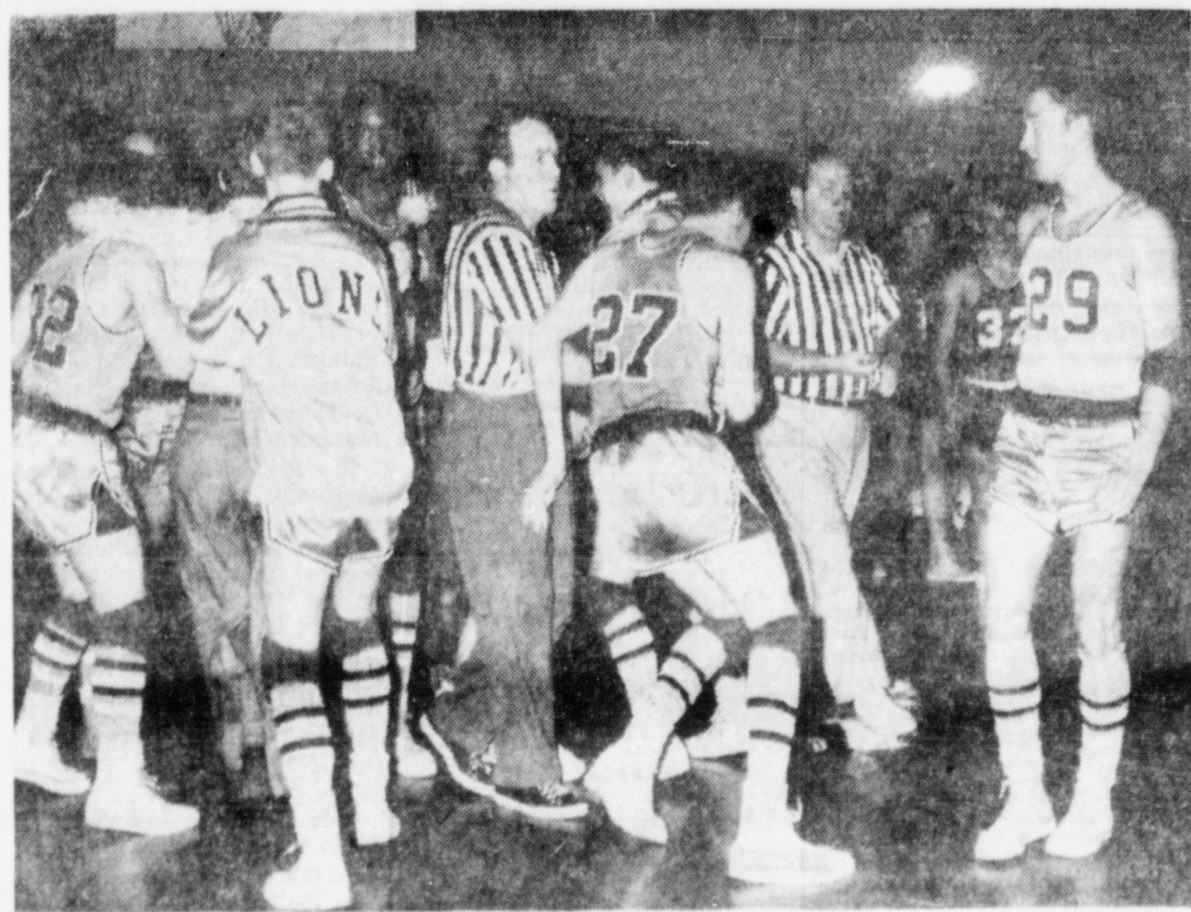

Whether it was impromptu or planned has not been revealed, but the Lions forged to the front early in the game on fast breaks that had the Wilmingtonians bewildered for a time.

THE LION offense further confused the Hurricane with its variety and the versatility. The Lions were hitting from far out in the middle, from the corners and from close in.

With Tom Swain devoting his energies to harrassing the Hurricane basketekers and helping set up the plays, the scoring was pretty well spread among the other four Lions.

Fred Belles was the high scorer with 8 field goals and 7 free throws. There was no pattern to his field goals; some of them were from the far corners and some from close under.

John Sommers was on the scoring end of most of the fast breaks

CROWD GOES WILD (above) after Lions beat Wilmington, 80 to 75, here Tuesday night. Second after this picture was taken, Coach Herb Russell was hoisted on happy shoulders and headed for the showers. as he drove through the Hurricane straight down the middle. About half of his 6 field goals were long one-handers.

Dave Lee added 9 free throws to his 6 field goals, most of which were floated in from within close range.

Dick English, who with Swain, was the most painful thorn in the side of the Wilmington outfit, looped in three long ones and added a

Eight boys took the floor for Wilmington and eight had a hand in the scoring, which was just about as varied as that of the Lions.

The difference was in the accuracy. The Lions hit 26 out of 48 shots from the field for a 54 percent while the Hurricane cashed in on only 24 of 64 tosses.

From the free throw line, the Wilmington boys netted 27 of 38 and the Lions got 28 of 42.

Harrison Gains Eye In Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO (P)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the old campaigner, had the eye of the gallery today as golf's winter tour went through the tuneup for the $20,000 Texas Open.

The old Arkansas traveler, who plays out of St. Louis, caused them to buzz yesterday when he shot his finest round in 25 years—a 10-under-par 61 in a pro-amateur.

It was at the Oak Hills Country Club course, a 6,135-yard layout that isn't as tough as the Fort Sam Houston course, where the open is to be played. But it showed that the man who won the Texas Open twice in the past—in 1939 and 1951—was to be reckoned with in this year's tournament.

Johnny Logan, Milwaukee short stop, played in every one of his team's National League games the last two seasons.

Mannie Seaman, former trainer for Joe Louis, plans to enter politics in New York City.

Cleveland'9' Sold For Near $4 Million

CLEVELAND (P)—A onetime usher at the Cleveland Indians Old League Park made arrangements yesterday under a gentlemen's agreement to purchase the Tribe for nearly $4 million.

William R. Daley, 63, who will be chairman of the new corporation had a chance to buy the club 6½ years ago for $1½ million less.

Daley, an industrialist, and General Manager Hank Greenberg, also a partner in the pending transaction, said they've been waiting for a long time to buy into the American League baseball club.

Greenberg has been waiting ever since he came here nearly nine years ago to get a financial interest in the club, which he thought he was to get in the beginning.

Both should get their wishes in about three weeks, the time estimated for the legal details to be worked out for the stockholders' approval. The directors, who own a large majority of shares, informally approved the price yesterday. It is $1,350 a share.

Daley will head a new corporation, but has asked the present officers to remain. Some of the shares still will be held by the current officers and directors.

Daley tried to buy the club back in the days Bill Veeck and his associates had the franchise. The Veeck regime finally sold out late in 1949 for about $2,200,000, compared with the $1,200,000 the club cost in 1946. The 1949 buyers were substantially the present owners.

Comiskey Sees Flag For Chisox

CHICAGO (P)—Chuck Comiskey, scion of one of baseball's pioneer families, is talking pennant in his rookie year at the Chicago White Sox helm.

The personable young vice president, who took charge after Frank Lane quit the Sox to become general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, enthusiastically cries "ninety-six in '56."

That's the number of victories Comiskey believes are needed to win the American League pennant this year and he's sure the Sox can reach the mark.

Santee Fate To Be Ruled On Sunday

NEW YORK (P)—The fate of star miler Wes Santee, who faces permanent suspension as an amateur athlete, likely will be decided Sunday by a seven-man AAU investigating committee.

Santee, a Marine lieutenant whose 4:09.5 mile is the fastest ever run by an American, yesterday threatened legal action if he is barred from running in the 1956 Olympic games in Melbourne.

The investigating committee comprised of AAU and Olympic officials will look into what Pincus Sober, chairman of the seven-man group, called "new information not previously revealed."

Santee was suspended by the Missouri Valley AAU last Oct. 11 on charges that he accepted "excessive expenses" for three track meets in California in May.

On Nov. 20, however, the Missouri Valley AAU board of managers lifted the suspension on the grounds of insufficient evidence. Santee resumed his running career but withdrew from indoor meets in New York on a request from the investigating committee.

"My whole career as an athlete is jeopardized," Santee, former University of Kansas athlete, told a stormy meeting of the New York Track Writers Assn.

More than anything else I want to run for my country and for the Marine Corps in the Olympics."

Lions Beat Wilmington in Crucial Game

Share Of Title
In SCO League
Is Now Assured

Taking an early lead, stretching it to what looked like a safe margin and then coming on again like champions after faltering temporarily in the stretch drive, the Lion cagers of Washington C. H. High School today were assured of at least a share of the South Central Ohio League throne after edging the Hurricane from Wilmington, 80 to 75, in the season's crucial game here Tuesday night.

The biggest crowd in several years jammed in to the gym to see this one.

Earlier in the season, the Hurricane swamped the Lions, 83 to 63. This was the ninth win in a row for the Lions and the fourth defeat of the season for the Hurricane.

Before preliminary was over, a "sold out" sign was hung on the doors. The Wilmington reserves won it easily, 56 to 31.

Yelling and screaming students formed a double-line horseshoe shaped aisle through which the Lions raced around the floor when they entered the gym for the game.

The din never let up until after it was over.

No sooner had the buzzer ended the game, then the crowd went wild. Fans, principally students, swarmed onto the floor and literally mauled the Lions, jumping with joy. Suddenly Coach Herb Russell was hoisted onto shoulders as the Lions went to the dressing room.

When he was let down, it was under a shower. He came out smiling broadly, beaming with happiness, and soaking wet.

THIS GAME knocked the Hurricane out of the championship, which it won last year. But, if the Lions are to take the crown, they will have to beat the Tigers at Greenfield in the final game of the season on Feb. 24.

If the Lions played like champions, so did the Wilmington boys. Trailing by 14 points at the end of the third period, they launched a fourth period drive with courage and determination that almost brought them victory.

At one time, about mid-way in that last period, the Lions' lead was whittled to only 3 points.

But there the Hurricane ran out of steam and the Lions got their second wind they halted the Wilmington drive and got their own offense rolling again after it had bogged down.

The Lions took the lead 5-4 in the first two minutes and never yielded it.

Whether it was impromptu or planned has not been revealed, but the Lions forged to the front early in the game on fast breaks that had the Wilmingtonians bewildered for a time.

THE LION offense further confused the Hurricane with its variety and the versatility. The Lions were hitting from far out in the middle, from the corners and from close in.

With Tom Swain devoting his energies to harassing the Hurricane basketekers and helping set up the plays, the scoring was pretty well spread among the other four Lions.

Fred Belles was the high scorer with 8 field goals and 7 free throws. There was no pattern to his field goals; some of them were from the far corners and some from close under.

John Sommers was on the scoring end of most of the fast breaks as he drove through the Hurricane straight down the middle. About half of his 6 field goals were long one-handers.

Dave Lee added 9 free throws to his 6 field goals, most of which were floated in from within close range.

Dick English, who with Swain, was the most painful thorn in the side of the Wilmington outfit, looped in three long ones and added a couple more from under the basket.

Eight boys took the floor for Wilmington and eight had a hand in the scoring, which was just about as varied as that of the Lions.

The difference was in the accuracy. The Lions hit 26 out of 48 shots from the field for a 54 percent while the Hurricane cashed in on only 24 of 64 tosses.

From the free throw line, the Wilmington boys netted 27 of 38 and the Lions got 28 of 42.

Conversation Proven 'Art' By Half Hour Radio Program

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you ever grow bored with the gossip, babbling, monologuing and petty facts that make up, for most of us, that thing called conversation? To hear what it really can be in the way of exchange and interplay of wit and wisdom tune to Conversation on the NBC radio network of a Thursday evening.

If you think television has destroyed this most ancient form of communication, listen to Clifton Fadiman and his weekly guests—who tonight are novelist Jerome Weidman and comedian Henry Morgan. You'll take heart. You may even try indulging in a little conversation yourself.

Fadiman, a critic, editor, writer and master of ceremonies in a long line of radio and TV programs, was goaded into conversation in a small office the other day. Conversationally he turns out to be a pacer; that is, he seems to feel he thinks better on the hoof while strolling from here to there.

"We're a very amiable people in America," he said. "We don't like to hurt each other. We feel that ideas have sharp edges and so we're not inclined to discuss ideas conversationally. On the other hand, we feel that gossip doesn't hurt anyone. You know, if somebody says, 'I wonder what that car was doing in Mrs. Jones' driveway all afternoon?' everybody feels that really nobody has been hurt."

"By the same token, we feel that recitals of facts don't hurt anybody. But expression of ideas seems to be a way of asserting yourself—and we think that a little ill-mannered. Yet it's obvious that our minds are better than our talk indicates because, as a people, our judgments are of the highest level."

Slagle suffered severe burns and shock when his home on Market Street was wrecked by an explosion Sunday night.

Miss Turnpseed, whose home is in Bloomingburg, was injured about noon Saturday when she was hit by a car at the Main-Court Street intersection following a collision of the car and a truck.

Police Chief Vaiden Long said no charges have been filed against either driver, but added that the investigation of the car-truck collision was continuing.
